

BEING CHUCKED OUT OF HEALEY'S

NORMAN AND ARTIST EWER TAKE IN THE LATEST PASTIME OF BROADWAY'S GAY THROG.

ESPECIALLY DRAWN FOR THE NEWS-TIMES BY RAYMOND CRAWFORD EWER.

BY NORMAN.

NEW YORK, Aug. 16.—As these lines are written, one of the leading pastimes of Broadway's happy throng is being chucked out of Healey's. Just how long this diversion may continue in vogue is uncertain. The situation is this: Gaynor ordered that all restaurants with bars must shut up shop at one o'clock. Plain "beaneries" can feed people all night, but the "lobster palaces" must dismiss their patrons and put out the lights at 1 a. m.

All the "lobster palace" proprietors, except one, fell in line with the mandate. That one was Thos. Healey, whose gilded caravansary is at the northern end of the White Way, being on Columbus av. at 66th st., close to where Columbus av. and Broadway intersect.

Healey went into court and got a decision that the police had no right to eject his patrons if no drinks were being served. Healey and his patrons decided to make a stand, backed by the court decision. The patrons decided to stick to their seats and see if the police would dare to drag them out.

The police dared, all right. Then arose the pastime, being chucked out of Healey's. Adventurous spirits of both sexes, all up and down the block, light highway, flocked to Healey's at midnight to take part in the "fun."

At 12:55 the lights in the bar are put out and all drinks are removed from the tables. A double file of cops comes down Columbus av., with Inspector Dwyer at their head. The mob in the street has increased to perhaps 2,000, and a couple of hundred more have paid five cents apiece to the elevated railroad company for tickets which enable them to make use of the 66th st. station platform as a grandstand, from which to look down upon the scene.

The throng jeers the cops, some of whom get busy, shouting the onlookers off the sidewalks into the street. The rest march into the restaurant. A young policeman announces: "This place must be closed at 1 o'clock. Patrons will have to leave."

"Hooray! Hooray! Hooray-y-y!" Three great ironical cheers from the crowd at the tables, echoed by the mob in the street. Chauffeurs of the waiting automobiles blow their horns in derision, making a hideous din. The pop and glare of a newspaper photographer's flashlight contributes to the gaiety.

Another policeman tries to make a speech. "Hooray! Hooray! Hooray-y-y-y!"

Honk! Honk! Honk! "Yah-h-h-h!" Thus the chorus from within and without.

Then the police get into action. A short notice to the diners at each table that they must get out. If they obey promptly, all right. If not—well, that's the game; that's where the players get their money's worth.

Mr. Man is yanked to his feet by one, two or three brawny policemen—as many as are necessary. He is rushed across the floor to the door and given a heave that sends him sprawling into the street. Mrs. Woman, his companion, or Miss Woman, as the case may be, feels each of her arms seized by a brawny hand. With a nightstick pressed against her spine, she also is propelled to the door and heaved out.

Tables are overturned; glassware and dishes are smashed; the glare of flash powder is incessant. A big man resists valiantly. He grips a table and overturns it; cops pull him loose. He fights harder and is borne out the door flat on his back, policemen carrying him by his arms and legs. A woman dares the police to throw her out. They throw her, all right.

The people who have played at being chucked out of Healey's are looking themselves over and cheerfully remarking that the fun they had was worth much more than the wear and tear on their glad rags.

WANT THE ST. LOUIS BOULEVARD EXTENDED

Board of Works Receives Petition But Takes No Definite Action on Matter.

The board of public works in their meeting at the city hall, Friday evening, received and considered a petition toward the extension of the present boulevard on St. Louis st. from South Bend av. to Howard st. The petition was discussed and filed.

The board reports the work on the St. Louis boulevard well under way and progressing rapidly. Reconstruction of the rustic bridge at Leeper park was also considered. A deed was received and filed relating to the original part of Kaley park.

The work which has been in progress for some time at Potawatomi park is nearing completion.

SOCIALISTS NAME A FULL CITY TICKET

Platform Which Includes Numerous Things Is Adopted at Friday's Meeting.

A full socialist city ticket was placed in the field at a meeting held Friday evening at Carpenters' hall. With a view of coming before the people with a definite program, stating what they are and what they stand for, they have adopted a platform which favors municipal ownership of public utilities; abolition of the contract system, and instead, direct employment on all public work; eight hour day; popular election of boards of education; free text books and free meals to school children, and free clothing to those in need of same; municipal hospitals, medical dispensaries, etc.

The following were nominated:

CURRENCY CAUCUS OFF TILL MONDAY

Fight Over the Measure in All Probability Will Be Made in the House.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 16.—After three hours of lively discussion between the administration forces and the currency "insurgents", the house democratic caucus late Friday adjourned until Monday. The fight for amendments to the bill has been bitter and Friday night the prospects were that the caucus might run through all of next week, with a final contest on the floor of the house inevitable.

Attacks on the bill began in the caucus soon after Rep. Borah of Missouri entered upon an analytical defense of the measure. He was frequently interrupted as was Majority Leader Underwood, who came to his support.

OLD HUMIDITY LIKES TO STAY ON THE JOB

Besides Old Sol, who sent the temperature soaring above the 85 degree mark Friday afternoon, the general humidity entered the battle being contested on the weather battlefield, forcing the innocent bystander to sweater in the shade.

Probably the humidity was as close, Friday as it has been during the season. Hardly a puff of breeze stirred, even at the outskirts of the city. Although no prostrations were reported, numbers of people were forced to quit work.

Early in the morning .02 of an inch of rain fell and the minimum temperature for the day was 69, several notches above the low mark for Thursday.

HAD 200 OPERATIONS.

BALTIMORE, Md.—More than 200 operations within three years failed to save the life of George McDowell, suffering from a baffling throat disease.

PRACTICAL JOKE MAY HAVE SERIOUS ENDING

COLUMBUS CITY, Ind., Aug. 16.—Scott Jones, aged 17, the son of Frank Jones, a farmer near here, is suffering convulsions as the result of a practical joke. The boy's sister died a few weeks ago.

One evening when he was driving past the cemetery with another sister they saw a white form rise from the sister's grave and beckon to them. The boy fainted in fright, but the girl resisted the lines and drove hurriedly home. The boy still is in a serious condition. His father threatens to prosecute if he can learn the joker's identity.

SUIT OVER OVERFLOW HAS BEEN SETTLED

ELKHART, Ind., Aug. 16.—The condemnation suit of the Elkhart Hydraulic Co., a subsidiary corporation of the Indiana & Michigan Electric Co., versus William H. Mitchell to establish the value of 67.78 acres of overflow land has been compromised.

It is understood that Mr. Mitchell received within a few hundred dollars of the judgment given him by a superior court jury which was $6,850.

The land became overflowed because of the building of a new dam in the St. Joseph river. The court's appraisers had set a valuation of $4,800 on the property.

WANTS ALIMONY.

William H. Weaver, charged by his wife with cruelty, was sued by her for divorce in the superior court. She seeks alimony of $1,000. There is one child, George E. Weaver, aged 16, whose custody the plaintiff asks.

GIRLS ARRESTED.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 16.—Seven striking girl skirt makers were arrested in connection with a clothing manufacturing establishment here Friday on charge of disturbing the peace. The girls were on picket duty.

SHORT OF WATER.

PETERSBURG.—The citizens of Ottwell have given up the street sprinkling business, with the dust five inches deep on the principle streets. All of the deepest wells have been pumped dry and the water is being carefully conserved for drinking.

"HE" WAS A GIRL.

MITCHELL.—After seeking in vain to find employment in several Indiana cities an 18-year-old "boy" sought out Rev. A. G. Bryan and confessed being a girl. The wayfarer said she had stolen her brother's clothes and masqueraded as a boy because she thought boys had an easier time than girls. She was sent back to relatives in Cincinnati.

HE WAS THE BOSS.

INDIANAPOLIS.—When Norman Valless returned home and found his wife had bought a bathing suit after he had told her she could not go swimming, he struck her with his fist. He was held before Judge Collins and fined $1 and costs.

A PRACTICAL OUTFIT.

Girls' "Domestic Science" Suit. In these days of high living with cooking taught in the schools, mothers will be pleased to supply to willing home workers the necessary garments for keeping clean amidst the various duties of preparing a meal. The models here submitted comprise a protective apron, a neat cap, and a sleeve protector. The outfit may serve for use in dusting and other household duties as well as cooking. The pattern is cut in four sizes: Eight, 10, 12 and 14 years. It is suitable for percale, gingham, cambric or chambray, and requires two and a quarter yards for the apron, one-half yard for the sleeve protector and five-eighths yard for the cap of 38-inch material for a 10-year size.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10 cents in silver or stamps.
